mounted policeman in handling traffic on crowded thoroughfares. From my own personal observations it is absolutely necessary to have mounted men on these avenues. A motorcycle policeman can not operate his machine to get the best results in heavy traffic, while the horseman is always on the Job. It would certainly facilitate matters to place mounted men on Fifth avenue, for instance, in addition to the men already there and give the motorcycle policemen a roving commission to go after the real of enders.

Will you kindly let me know about how large the inlet and exhaust pipes of an automobile motor are in comparison with the bore of the cylinder? Which inlet valves are usually used in a high speed motor—automatic or mechanical? Will you also please let me know the best route from New York to Milford, Pike County, Pa, by way of Newton, N. J.?

The valves of an engine are usually made as large as possible in order to secure quick admission and exhaust. Of course the diameter of each valve must be less than one-half the bore of the cylinder. The mechanical valve is the logical valve for high speed

By Bozeman Bulger. EORGE STALLINGS is one of the very few men who can encourage ball players to hard work and even enthusiasm by abusing them. And by abuse I do not mean a gentle prod in the ribs. That is not the style of Stallings. He aims a full load of verbal shot straight at the victim's head and lets go with both barrels. And he keeps on firing until the last man is out in the ninth. There have been extreme cases where he failed to find the the fact that a heavier oil will not Those cases are rare, but not beyond his pale. If there run so freely when cold. Off the field there could be no gentler man, no biggersearted man. He loves his players as chums and even advises with them in their private affairs. If any ill luck should befall them—outside of baseball—his pursestrings are always open.

Stallings is genuinely fond of his players personally and there is much evidence that this fondness is mutual. As a striking instance of it, a year or so ago when Mrs. Stallings was ill in Buffalo the members of the team received $400 as 'heir share of the extra money for exhibition games.
